

Telephone Legal Advisory Services

---

As part of the Employee Assistance Program, employees and their family members can access legal advisory services across Canada simply by phoning the Family Services toll-free number listed below.

The Family Services intake counsellor will take your name, telephone number and a convenient time for you to receive a call from our legal advisory service.

Services are private and confidential. If further action is required, you can act on that advice by consulting your own lawyer, or the legal advisory service can refer you to a lawyer in your area who will bill you at a preferred rate.

The legal advisory service provides access by phone to experienced lawyers practising across Canada who are able to provide you and your family members with legal help on issues such as:

- consumer law and protection
- family law
- motor vehicle law
- employment law , and
- general legal services
